SUBJECT: J. P. MASCARO & SONS UNVEILS A NEW LOOK AT ITS BRIDGEPORT TERMINAL

Local waste service and recycling company, J. P. Mascaro & Sons, has started renovations at its Bridgeport, Pennsylvania Division to further its position as one of the leading waste service operations in the country. The recent upgrade is being undertaken in order to eliminate the collected recyclables from being processed outdoors. The company constructed a concrete floor covered by an aesthetically pleasing 90 ft. wide by 120 ft. long canopy. The canopy has concrete block push walls surrounding the building's perimeter, topped with a mesh fence wall panel to allow air movement and to contain any wind effects.

"Recycling programs are growing immensely in the area and all recyclables at Bridgeport were being handled outdoors, causing them to be subject to weather. This exposure to rain and wind had the potential to impact market value. The current facility renovation will result in the high grade material we strive to achieve for our customers," Mascaro's Director of Engineering, Ryan Inch, explained.

Mascaro's Bridgeport Division transfers waste and recyclable materials to Pioneer Crossing Landfill and TotalRecycle, respectively.
